In this basement, live the champions of every two-legged race: humans, dwarves, elves, werewolves and Tsaar. By killing the weak and innocent creatures of RuneScape, you can find yourself facing a challenge from a champion of the competition. Each champion has a different tactic and rule related to fighting him or her. To challenge them, you must agree to their terms and conditions, which will be told to you before entering the arena. At the moment, this new mini game is an extremely pointless time-smelt. Don't try to get a champion scroll. This is because getting scrolls is extremely difficult. Losing hours of goblins training, hoping for a scroll, will disappoint you with the reward for killing the Goblin champion. 2.0 - Champion Scrolls are a document that allows you to enter the two-point as one of the champions. They are obtained through monster drops, and at the moment there are many theories about how to achieve them. Please note that there can only be one challenge from certain monsters at a time. If you are really lucky, you may find that killing the weak and innocent creatures of RuneScape will end with you being challenged to a duel by the champion of this race. The interpretation of this is that only lower-level creatures drop challenge scrolls. NPC is like goblins, hill giants, dwarfs, skeletons, and zombies, until now have been confirmed to drop challenge scrolls. However, as countless players resent the murder of thousands of goblins rather than reaching the another theory appears in play. The theory is, well, You can get a scrolling challenge faster by killing monsters closer to your battle level.
